

Maria Kaparou

Maria Kaparou graduated from the Department of History, Archaeology and History of Art of the National and Kapodistrian University in Athens and completed a Master's of Science in Archaeological Materials in the Department of Archaeology of the Sheffield University, U.K. She is currently a PhD candidate at the University of Peloponnese in the Department of History, Archaeology and Cultural Resource Management, Laboratory of Archaeometry, in collaboration with the respective Laboratory of Archaeometry of the Department of Materials Science of N.C.S.R Demokritos. She has participated in various scientific projects specializing in vitreous and ceramic archaeological materials.